

Hello fellow revolutionaries,

I'm sitting in my castle on the hill (the striped one that annoys everyone) and I'm admiring my rose garden. Everyone should have a rose garden. They have a real calming affect, plus they're beautiful to look at. I wish I could meet someone that fits this description.

I'm sort of in the middle of working on my next album, I've written everything w/ 3 very talented young guys - David Hall, Dallas Austin and Babyface and now I'm waiting to start recording. I'm taking advantage of a few weeks off by attending the play-off games I'm ~~still~~ a little bit obsessed with basketball.

(this also seems to annoy everyone)

I can't help it if I know how to have fun. and speaking of having fun can everyone please get over the fact that I went on t.v., smoked a cigar, said the f-word a few times, and made David Letterman look stupid.

I actually had a very good time, thought it was one of my better performances and proved once again how sexist the world we live in really is. If I were Andrew Dice Clay or Snoop Doggy Dog no one would have given a f---! In this country you are not allowed to be a girl → ~~to~~ look good, have a point of view and have a good time all at once. need I say more?

o.k. ill lighten up. Have you tried the Snackwell Pot free chocolate cookies? They're simply de-lish! O.k. gotta go watch the knicks play the bulls.

Speak the truth and shame the devil!
